Classroom News

Hello! Summer is now in full swing, especially down at our end of the building. Our days have been busy, and flying by quickly! The kids in our class also have many things going on outside of their time at the center so many of their schedules as to when they are here is very flexible. The majority of kids are not here 5 full days per week. With that being said, we are trying to do a special activity each day so that as many kids can be involved as possible. Some of the kids are having a hard time with understanding that they are missing out on activities here, but I know they are also doing some great activities with family when that are not here. So that is how I've been addressing that with the kids, when it's brought up.
